Case Number:

PETITION FOR REVIEW OF FINAL ACTION OF THE BALLOT TITLE
SETTING BOARD CONCERNING PROPOSED INITIATIVE 2025-2026
#240 (“CONGRESSIONAL REDISTRICTING”)

Wayne Williams (“Petitioner”) respectfully petitions this Court, pursuant to §1-40-107(2), C.R.S. (2025), to review the actions of the Ballot Title Board regarding Proposed Initiative 2025-2026 #240 (“Congressional Redistricting”).

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

A. Procedural History of Proposed Initiative 2025-2026 #240

Proposed Initiative 2025-2026 #240 was filed by its Proponents with the Title Board, and an initial hearing was on March 18, 2026, where the Board determined that the measure constitutes a single subject and set a ballot title. Two opponents filed separate Motions for Rehearing. Petitioner Williams filed his timely Motion for Rehearing with the Title Board on March 25, 2026. A rehearing was held on April 1, 2026. The Board denied all Motions for Rehearing in their entirety.

B. Jurisdiction

Petitioner requests review by the Supreme Court pursuant to §1-40-107(2), C.R.S. (2025). This Petition is filed with this Court within 7 days after the Rehearing before the Title Board.

As required by §1-40-107(2), C.R.S., attached to this Petition are certified copies of (1) Petitioner’s Motion for Rehearing before the Title Board, (2) the initial title, ballot title, and submission clause set by the Title Board on March 18, 2026, (3) the results of the Rehearing before the Title Board, (3) the final version of the text of the proposed initiative as submitted to the Title Board, and (4) the Fiscal Summary of the proposed initiative prepared by the Legislative Council Staff.

GROUND FOR APPEAL

Petitioner challenges title setting on the same grounds listed in his Motion for Rehearing:

1) Title Board lacked jurisdiction to set a ballot title.

The measure does not constitute a single subject. The measure contains multiple subjects that are not necessary or connected to the measure's single subject of gerrymandering congressional districts including: 1) Disenfranchising voters of their representation on the State Board of Education and University of Colorado regents; 2) Adoption of 8 hyper partisan maps; and 3) Granting authority for the independent redistricting commission to continue to engage in congressional redistricting in 2031 and every 10 years thereafter.

2) The title is not clear and does not reflect the central purposes of the measure.

a) The title fails to apprise voters of its stated purpose to gerrymander Colorado congressional district lines;

b) The title fails to apprise voters that the new lines will also be redrawn for the State Board of Education and the University of Colorado Board of Regents;

- c) The title fails to describe the maps in any detail. The title is so lacking in detail, voters may be led to believe this is some type of clean up measure and certainly will not understand from the title what the maps represent; and
- d) The title fails to inform voters that the mid-cycle creation of new districts will disenfranchise voters, a fact admitted by counsel for Proponents.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

Petitioner respectfully requests that, after consideration of the parties' briefs, the Court determine that the Title Board lacked jurisdiction to set a title and that Proposed Initiative 2025-2026 #240 contains more than a single subject, reverse the actions of the Title Board in setting a title and ballot title for this measure, and direct that the Proposed Initiative be returned to the Proponents.

Should the Court uphold the single subject of Proposed Initiative 2025-2026 #240, Petitioner requests that the Court remand the initiative back to the Title Board for the setting of a proper, nonprejudicial title.

Respectfully submitted April 8, 2026.

MOTION FOR REHEARING

By undersigned counsel, Robert Balink a registered voter of El Paso County, Colorado objects to the titles set for Initiative #240, pursuant to C.R.S. § 1-40-107(1)(a)(I).

On March 18, 2026, the Title Board Set the following ballot title and submission clause for Initiative #240:

Shall there be an amendment to the Colorado Constitution and a change to the Colorado Revised Statutes concerning congressional redistricting and adopting a new temporary congressional map, and, in connection therewith, creating a temporary map to be used in 2028 and 2030 congressional elections that replaces the current congressional district map drawn by the independent congressional redistricting commission and requiring the commission to draw congressional district maps in 2031 and every 10 years thereafter?

In so doing, the Board erred for the following reasons:

- 1. The measure contains two separate and distinct subjects that are not necessarily connected to one another.

Under well-trod standards, proponents may not combine “subjects into a single initiative in the hope of attracting support from various factions that may have different or even conflicting interests.”<sup>1</sup> Most importantly, this requirement “is intended to ensure that each proposal depends upon its own merits for passage.”<sup>2</sup> Thus, a court (and Title Board) must ask “whether there is a danger of logrolling: Have measures been combined to secure the enactment of one that could not be carried out on its own.”<sup>3</sup> Logrolling is the “practice of combining subjects with no necessary or proper connection for the purpose of garnering support for the initiative from various factions—that may have different or even conflicting interests—[in order to] lead to the enactment of measures that would fail on their own merits.”<sup>4</sup>

A. The measure alters the constitutional framework by suspending the Commission’s authority and temporarily shifting redistricting authority to statutorily-enacted initiative.

The initiative first and foremost prohibits the current constitutional redistricting commission from creating a congressional map during the 2028 and 2030 election cycles. By suspending this power and replacing it with a citizen initiated statutory map, the proposed dramatically changes who does redistricting, and under what authority. To be sure, the proponents have described the suspension of the commission and enactment of a new statutory map as a minor matter, but this approach fails to recognize that the proposed initiative suspends entirely the constitutional framework adopted by voters in 2018. Indeed, the Colorado Supreme Court has held that a “proposal to remove [] constitutional authority for congressional redistricting from the General Assembly and transfer it to the newly created Redistricting Commission” is a distinct subject. In that case, involving Proposed Ballot Initiative 2017-2018 #132, the Court did not limit its analysis to merely a transfer of authority from the General Assembly to a commission. Rather, it focused on the upending of the constitutional framework. It found that shifting authority from the legislative branch to a new, constitutional body, “affect[ed] separate redistricting processes derived from different sources of constitutional authority.”<sup>5</sup> In short, the proposed initiative effectuated a “fundamental reallocation of the power to draw the districts for Colorado’s seats in the U.S. Congress.”<sup>6</sup>

Here, Proposed Initiative 2025-2026 #240 alters the source of constitutional authority for redistricting for four years, by undoing what Colorado voters approved in 2018. In 2018, “Amendment Y transfer[red] the authority to draw congressional district maps from the state legislature to a newly created Independent Congressional Redistricting Commission.”<sup>7</sup> But the current proposal now removes constitutional authority (set forth in Colo. Const. art. V, § 44) from the Independent Congressional Redistricting Commission, and transfers it back to the legislative branch, by creating a statutorily-authorized map. Importantly, the new constitutional provision prohibits the Commission from creating a map at any time during the 2028 and 2030 election cycles. Furthermore, the General Assembly exercises plenary power – broadly construed power to legislate “for all purposes of civil government” subject only to constitutional limitations.<sup>8</sup> Accordingly, the new, statutory map will be subject to the authority and control of the General Assembly. And once again the General Assembly will have plenary power to draw its own maps at any time before the resumption of the constitutional Commission.

B. The proposed initiative creates a new congressional electoral map.

A second subject is the creation of a new congressional electoral map. Here, the proposed measure removes the current electoral district for all Colorado members of Congress and replaces it with a new electoral map for the 2028 and 2030 general elections, and any special election prior to the creation of new maps following the 2030 decennial census. This is no small thing: it represents a massive shift in the source of electoral power and Colorado’s representation in the U.S. Congress.

Notably, this new map does not result from the commission’s redistricting process. It is entirely separate and completely replaces the commission’s procedures.

C. The change in redistricting authority and the new congressional map are two separate subjects.

(1) The two subjects are hard-wired into the very title and submission clause.

The title and submission clause themselves plainly show that it is impossible to describe the two separate purposes in one subject. Specifically, the title states “Shall there be an amendment to the Colorado Constitution and a change to the Colorado Revised Statutes concerning congressional redistricting and adopting a new temporary congressional map.” The title itself states that the measure concerns both congressional redistricting and adopts a new map. This language itself shows that one cannot set a single subject without describing both the redistricting process, and a new map entirely separate from that redistricting process.

(2) The two subjects are not necessarily connected to one another.

Different components within a measure must be “necessarily and properly connected rather than disconnected or incongruous.”<sup>9</sup> Indeed, the Colorado Supreme Court has recently recognized that “necessarily and properly connected” is a strict requirement, when it determined that the definition of the word “fee” while connected to the treatment of fees, was not “necessarily” connected.<sup>10</sup> Here, no necessary and proper connection exists between repeal of the redistricting commission and the creation of new maps.

Here, the initiative not only creates a new map, but it also prohibits the Commission from creating a replacement map for four years. One can create a new map (and place it in statute or constitution) without suspending the Commission’s authority.

The proponents argue that the Commission must be suspended by pointing to constitutional language that sets forth the Commission’s powers and procedures. Specifically, they cite article V, § 44, which states “[w]hen a new apportionment is made by Congress, the commission shall divide the state into congressional districts accordingly.”<sup>11</sup> Nothing in this language requires suspension of the Commission due to the creation of a new statutory map.

First, under the plain language of the Constitution, nothing in that language prohibits a constitutional initiative that would simply create a new map. When interpreting the constitution and initiatives, courts “employ the general rules of statutory construction and give words and phrases their plain and ordinary meanings.”<sup>12</sup> Here, the plain language states that “when” a new apportionment is made, “the commission shall divide . . .” General usage and Colorado law make clear that the word “shall” means that a person has a duty.<sup>13</sup> Thus when a reapportionment is made, the Commission has a duty to create new congressional districts. This is a duty, not a prohibition. The Commission’s duty does not limit it from doing other things. For example, if the Commission were somehow reconstituted mid-decade, nothing in the current constitutional language would prohibit it from creating new congressional districts. Yet the new initiative changes this, by barring the Commission until 2031 from creating a new map.

(3) The two subjects appeal to different constituencies.

By including both a map and a new citizen-initiated statutory map, the initiative appeals to two separate constituencies among voters. First are those dissatisfied with the current congressional boundaries and want a new map to counter efforts in other states. Second are those dissatisfied with the constitutionally mandated Commission, who agree that its operations should at a minimum be suspended. This is the essence of logrolling: garnering support for an initiative from factions that may have different or even conflicting interests.

2. The ballot title and submission clause are misleading and incomplete.

Here, the ballot title and submission clauses are misleading and incomplete, for the following reasons:

A. The title does not describe the new congressional districts.

The animating purpose behind the initiative is to draw new districts. Indeed, the Proponents admit that the only reason they wish to change the redistricting process is to remove an obstacle to enacting new maps. Here, the Proponents seek new maps in response to Republican redistricting efforts in other states,<sup>14</sup> and the new maps fundamentally change the partisan make-up of the congressional districts. This is a big thing. And the title should describe it.

B. The new maps apply to special elections.

As the Title Board recognized, the new congressional maps apply to special elections. Accordingly, the title is incomplete and inaccurate. The title should adopt language similar to the initiative itself, which states that the new map applies to “every Colorado Congressional election” until the new commission creates redistricting maps.”

FOR THESE REASONS, in light of the arguments and legal precedent cited above, the Title Board should dismiss Initiative #240 for lack of jurisdiction. If the Board does not do so, it should revise the title so that it is accurate and not misleading.

COLORADO TITLE SETTING BOARD

Wayne W. Williams, Objector

MOTION FOR REHEARING ON INITIATIVE 2025-2026 # 239-242

Pursuant to CRS § 1-40-107(1)(a) and ¶ 11 of the Title Board Policies and Procedures, Wayne W. Williams, a registered elector of the State of Colorado objects to the determination of the Title Board regarding single subject for Proposed Initiatives 2025-2026 #239-242. Objector maintains that the measures do not constitute a single subject and that the Board should not have set title. Objector additionally challenges the titles set by the Board.

In addition to being a registered elector in the State of Colorado, the undersigned has worked to ensure the voting rights of Coloradans since first serving on a Canvass Board in 1997 and subsequently serving as counsel in election matters, the Clerk and Recorder for Colorado's most populous county, and Colorado's 38th Secretary of State, and the designated election official for multiple elections in El Paso and Mesa Counties.

On March 18, 2026, the Title Board considered the initiatives. The Board found that the measures constitute a single subject and proceeded to set title.

The undersigned brings this Motion for Rehearing because the initiatives and proposed titles conceal the disenfranchisement of hundreds of thousands of Coloradans and do not plainly state the overturning of a constitutionally mandated nonpartisan process with hyperpartisan maps and the stripping of protections against gerrymandering from the Colorado Constitution, inter alia, as set forth below.

1. Initiatives 239, 240, 241, and 242 do not contain a single subject

Each proposed measure contains multiple subjects. Objector asserts the central feature of Initiatives 239, 240, and 242 is the creation of hyperpartisan congressional maps. Proponents admit this is their findings:

(11) IT IS THE INTENT OF THE PEOPLE THAT COLORADO'S TEMPORARY MAPS BE DESIGNED TO HELP NEUTRALIZE THE PARTISAN GERRYMANDERING BEING UNDERTAKEN BY REPUBLICAN-LED STATES WITHOUT ERODING FAIR REPRESENTATION FOR ALL COMMUNITIES.

Notably, there is no mention of the creation or re-creation of an independent redistricting commission in the Declarations. The creation of the commission is an unrelated and unconnected subject.

In addition, Initiatives 239, 241, and 242 change the venue for review, which is a separate subject.

Finally, as set forth in Section 2E below, the effect of Initiatives 239, 240, and 242 is to disenfranchise hundreds of thousands – if not millions -- of Colorado voters, many of whom will never be allowed to vote for the State Board of Education Member and/or Regent who will “represent” them. Wholesale disenfranchisement of Colorado voters for these important offices is a separate subject.

One purpose of the single-subject requirement is that it “precludes the joining together of multiple subjects into a single initiative in the hope of attracting support from various factions which may have different or even conflicting interest.” In re Proposed Initiative "Public Rights in Waters II", 898 P.2d 1076, 1079 (Colo. 1995).

The inclusion of both a hyperpartisan map for two elections and then the creation or recreation of an independent commission for elections six years later “is precisely the logrolling dilemma that the voters intended to avoid when they adopted the [single-subject] requirements.” In re Title, Ballot Title, & Submission Clause for 2011-2012 #3, 2012 CO 25, ¶ 31, 274 P.3d 562, 571.

The single-subject requirement is designed to protect voters against fraud and surprise and to eliminate the practice of combining several unrelated subjects in a single measure for the purpose of enlisting support from advocates of each subject and thus securing the enactment of measures which might not otherwise be approved by voters on the basis of the merits of those discrete measures. In re Proposed Initiative for an Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Colorado Adding Section 2 to Article VII (Petitions), 907 P.2d 586, 589 (Colo. 1995) In re Proposed Initiative "Public Rights in Waters II", 898 P.2d 1076, 1078 (Colo. 1995) In re Proposed Initiative on Sch. Pilot Program, 874 P.2d 1066, 1069 (Colo. 1994).

An initiative contains a single subject when its provisions are “necessarily and properly connected rather than disconnected or incongruous.” In re 2019-2020 #315, ¶ 13 (quoting In re Title, Ballot Title & Submission Clause for 2015-2016 #73, 369 P.3d 565, 568, 2016 CO 24, ¶ 14); accord In re 2009-2010 #91, 235 P.3d at 1077 (“[W]hen an initiative's provisions seek to achieve purposes that bear no necessary or proper connection to the initiative's subject, the initiative violates the constitutional rule against multiple subjects.”).

The single-subject requirement is violated when the text of the measure “relates to more than one subject and has at least two distinct and separate purposes which are not dependent upon or connected with each other.” In re Title, Ballot Title & Submission Clause for 2005-2006 #74, 136 P.3d 237, 239 (Colo. 2006) (quoting In re Title, Ballot Title & Submission Clause, & Summary with Regard to a Proposed Petition for an Amendment to the Const. of State Adding Section 2 to Article VII (Petition Procs.), 900 P.2d 104, 109 (Colo. 1995)).

The two subjects, an independent commission and a partisan map, could not be more disconnected and incongruous. The subjects both stand on their own with no necessary connection. They are incongruous in that they share nothing in common. They are in fact inapposite. It is unlikely that voters supporting a hyperpartisan map also support a map that factors in competitiveness and communities of interest.

2. The titles do not reflect the central purpose of the initiatives.

Should the Board hold to its determination that the initiatives contain a single subject, Objector further asserts that the titles set by the Board are deceptive, misleading, and inadequate to describe the purpose of the proposed initiatives.

The board is charged with the duty to act with the goal of producing a title which will enable the electorate, whether familiar or unfamiliar with the subject matter of a particular proposal, to determine intelligently whether to support or oppose such a proposal. In re Proposed Initiative Concerning "State Personnel System", 691 P.2d 1121 (Colo. 1984); Matter of Election Reform Amendment, 852 P.2d 28 (Colo. 1993). The title must fairly reflect the proposed initiative such that voters will not be misled into supporting or opposing the initiative because of the words that the Title Board employed. Bruce v. Hedges (In re Title, Ballot Title & Submission Clause for 2019-2020 #3 "State Fiscal Policy"), 2019 CO 107, ¶ 1, 454 P.3d 1056, 1058.

The Board set the following title for Initiative #239:

An amendment to the Colorado Constitution and a change to the Colorado Revised Statutes concerning congressional redistricting and adopting a new temporary congressional map, and, in connection therewith, replacing the independent congressional redistricting commission in the constitution with an identical commission in statute, creating a temporary congressional district map that replaces the current map and will be used in 2028 and 2030 congressional elections and requiring the new statutory independent congressional redistricting commission to draw a congressional district map after the 2030 census.

The Board set the following title for Initiative #240:

An amendment to the Colorado Constitution and a change to the Colorado Revised Statutes concerning congressional redistricting and adopting a new temporary congressional map, and, in connection therewith, creating a temporary map to be used in 2028 and 2030 congressional elections that replaces the current congressional district map drawn by the independent congressional redistricting commission and requiring the commission to draw congressional district maps in 2031 and every 10 years thereafter.

The Board set the following title for Initiative #241:

An amendment to the Colorado Constitution and a change to the Colorado Revised Statutes replacing the constitutional independent congressional redistricting commission with an identical statutory independent congressional redistricting commission if a ballot measure creating a new temporary congressional district map to be used in 2028 and 2030 congressional elections is approved by a vote of the people.

The Board set the following title for Initiative #242:

A change to the Colorado Revised Statutes creating a new temporary congressional district map to be used in 2028 and 2030 congressional elections if a ballot measure replacing the constitutional independent congressional redistricting commission with an identical statutory independent congressional redistricting commission is approved by a vote of the people.

- A. The ballot titles for Initiatives #239, #240 and #242 purposely conceal that the primary goal of each initiative is to replace the existing nonpartisan maps with gerrymandered hyperpartisan maps purposely designed to skew Colorado’s congressional districts to favor the election of seven members of Congress (and Regents and State Board of Education Members) from a single party which constitutes less than a quarter of Colorado voters. See <https://www.sos.state.co.us/pubs/elections/VoterRegNumbers/2026/FebruaryStatistics2026.xlsx>, showing “Dem” registration under 24.9% of Colorado’s 4,023,910 active registered voters.

Moreover, none of these titles do anything to describe the maps to the voters. In looking at these measures (as well as other measures that may appear on the same ballot) the voters would have no idea what the map will look like or even the purpose. Voters should understand the purpose of the map is to engage in hyperpartisan gerrymandering overwhelmingly favoring a single party representing less than a quarter of Colorado’s voters.

- B. Initiatives #239, #241 and #242 state that the statutory redistricting commission will be identical to the current commission. This implies there is no legal change to the process. In fact, the initiative changes the jurisdiction for reviewing the maps from the Colorado Supreme Court to a Denver District Court Judge. This is major change to the traditional redistricting process and must be described in the title. Voters would think it important that no longer will the state’s highest court review the map. Instead, a politically skewed District where the majority of Colorado voters do not reside will hear a matter of statewide importance.
- C. Moreover, none of the ballot titles inform the electorate that moving the commission from the Constitution to statute (as proposed in Initiatives # 239, #241, and #242) means that a partisanly skewed legislature can make any changes it desires in order to ensure partisan outcomes—including every single provision outlined in the measures. The proponents of Initiatives Y and Z purposely chose the more difficult constitutional amendment process, with more challenging signature requirements and a requirement for 55% to be adopted. Stripping the citizens of this protection against legislative whim without even explaining it deprives the voters of the ability to determine intelligently whether to support or oppose the proposals.
- D. The titles for each of the proposed initiatives mislead voters into believing that only congressional elections are affected by the change. None of them provide the voter with the information that changing the districts also determines membership on the State Board of Education and the University of Colorado Board of Regents – neither of which were affected by other states' congressional district changes. This information is critical for voters to know. Under the current defective titles, a voter whose children attend a state-approved public charter school would have no way of knowing that the approval of the hyperpartisan congressional districts or a legislatively alterable redistricting commission might result in a change in the Board of Education that could revoke the school's charter.

- E. Finally and most importantly, the ballot titles for Initiatives #239, #240 and #242 stealthily disenfranchise millions of Colorado residents. Because members of State Board of Education and the University of Colorado Board of Regents serve six year terms, large portions of the state would be represented by board members for whom they had no opportunity to vote and who in many cases do not live in the same district as the voters they purportedly represent. Under the proposed maps, voters in the newly constituted districts 1 (Bd of Education), 2 (Regent), 3 (Bd of Education), 6 (Regent), and 7 (Bd of Education & Regent) would be completely disenfranchised and never be allowed to vote on the indicated board members because these positions are elected in 2026 and would not be voted on again until new districts are created for the 2032 election. See <https://www.coloradosos.gov/pubs/elections/vote/officeUpForElection.html>.

The failure to inform voters in the title deprives them of critical information necessary to make an informed decision. Voters need to know that they will never be allowed to vote for regent or state board of education to represent these partisanly gerrymandered districts. To fail to inform them in the ballot title of this egregious disenfranchisement is reprehensible.

To assist the Board with crafting a more accurate title, the undersigned suggests the following for Initiative #239:

An amendment to the Colorado Constitution and a change to the Colorado Revised Statutes concerning congressional redistricting to disenfranchise hundreds of thousands of Coloradans and prevent them from voting for members of the State Board of Education and Board of Regents and replacing the nonpartisan congressional district map with a new hyperpartisan temporary congressional map gerrymandered to elect seven of Colorado's eight Congressional representatives and district Board of Education and CU Regents from a single party representing less than in one-quarter of Coloradans, and, in connection therewith, replacing the independent congressional redistricting commission in the constitution with a commission in statute that can be changed by the legislature to permit partisan gerrymandering and eliminate its independence without a vote of the people, creating a temporary hyperpartisan congressional district map that replaces the current nonpartisan map and will be used in 2028 and 2030 state board of education, congressional, and regent elections and requiring the new statutory congressional redistricting commission to draw a congressional district map after the 2030 census, with all decisions relating to the legality of any map or process to be decided first by a Denver district judge rather than the Colorado Supreme Court.

The above proposed title accurately informs voters of the effects of the initiatives (similar changes would be necessary as applicable to the other three measures).

Respectfully submitted this 25th day of March 2026.

Fiscal Summary of Initiative 240

This fiscal summary, prepared by the nonpartisan Director of Research of the Legislative Council, contains a preliminary assessment of the measure's fiscal impact. A full fiscal impact statement for this initiative is or will be available at leg.colorado.gov/bluebook. This fiscal summary identifies the following impact.

State Expenditures

By creating a new congressional map to be used in the 2028 and 2030 elections, the measure minimally increases workload for the Department of State to make adjustments to the statewide voter database, revise communications with county clerks, and update voter information materials. The department may also have increased workload to remedy any errors with the measure's map.

The Colorado Supreme Court will have increased workload to review the districts in the new map.

Local Government

Counties will have increased workload to update their address libraries and precincts for changes to congressional voting districts. County clerks may need to update submissions to the statewide voter database and inform voters on the changes to their district.

Economic Impact

This initiative is not expected to have a direct economic impact on the state.
